Our Oldest Friend.

READ TO "THE BOYS OF '29," JAN. 5, 1865.

I give you the health of the oldest friend That, short of eternity, earth can lend,— A friend so faithful and tried and true That nothing can wean him from me and you.

When first we screeched in the sudden blaze Of the daylight's blinding and blasting rays.

From gristle and pulp our frames have grown To stringy muscle and solid bone; while we were changing, he altered not; We might forget, but he never forgot.

He came with us to the college class,— Little cared he for the steward's pass! All the rest must pay their fee, But the grim old dead-head entered free.

He stayed with us while we counted o'er Four times each of the seasons four; And with every season, from year to year. The dear name Classmate he made more dear,

He never leaves us,—he never will, Till our hands are cold and our hearts are still; On birthdays, and Christmas, and New Year's H• always remembers both me and you.

Every year this faithful friend His little present is sure to send; Every year wheresoe'er we be, He wants a keepsake from you and me.

At length he will tell us, one by one, "My child, your labor on earth is done; And now you must journey afar to see My elder brother,—Eternity!"

And so, when long, long years have passed, Some dear old fellow will be the last,— Never a hoy alive but he Of all our goodly company!

When he lies down, but not till then, Our kind Class-Angel will drop the pen That writes in the day-book kept above Our lifelong record of faith and love.

So here's a health in homely rhyme To our oldest classmate, Father Time! May our last surviver live to be As bald, but as wise and tough as he!

But there are two other ideas or terms that require this uniting or reconciling word. Into whose ear, in these days, has not the din come of the contending cries of liberty and law? But is it not a misconcived strife which makes liberty and law ceived strife which makes liberty and law contrary? Where the spirit of the Lord is, contrary? Where the spirit of the Lord is, and learn that our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel our brave patriots breast the storm of t contrary? Where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. Man's freedom, so far from being hindered by, consists in God's reign; and it is the crowning shame, or rather impudence, of the nineteenth central contract of the contract of t tury to undertake to pass itself off for the true divine government, because the pro-vincial Jehovah of the Jews is understood to have cursed Canaan. We speak of the first pioneers in the wilderness of this continent; we are fresh pioneers in a savage moral waste. Like those who gashed the earth and shore away the wood before the Oriental monarchs, we are preparing the way of the Lord. It looks like a ruin we are making, but it is a road. Passing, ten years ago, through the tremendous gully of the Fenstermunz, among the mountains of Austria, I saw far off on the vast slope a host of men as though in mendous gully of the Fenstermunz, among the mondous gully of the Fenstermunz, among the vast slope a host of men as though in a contest with each other, aimless or angry as a swarm of hornets or bees, prying up the rocks and rolling them down the steep, filling the air with noise and dust, and apparently doing a work of purely wilful destruction. > An Incident of Libby Prison Experience. Mr. Richardson, of the New York Tribune, writes the following: I will give but one of the many incidents of our Libby experience. It was a hot sum-mer day, and we were all depressed, when the news came that Grant had been terricaptured forty thousand prisoners. The rebel papers indulged in a good many speculations as to where their authorities could guard these prisoners and how they could feed them without starving the people of Richmond. That was a sad, silent night in

Libby; and even the usual evening prayer meeting was clouded with despondency and doubt. There was one negro among the score or two in prison, who had excited my curiosi-ty, because in conversation with me, he had declared that he felt no interest in the national conflict; that it was a speculators' war on both sides, from which no good could ever result. He was the first African I had ever seen who professed to be indifferent on the subject. But the next day after we received this gloomy intelligence he came rushing up into our room and immediately began to dance a hornpipe, perform-that we had also conquered at Gettysburg; that Lee, and not Meade, was in full retreat. How suddenly the very atmosphore seemed to change. There was cheering and dancing; and somebody shouted "Glory, hallelujah." Upon this hint, Rev. Dr. McCabe, of Ohio, in his clear ringing tones, started Mrs. Howe's impressive hymn:

"For mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, makes the following statement respecting the "love for the old flag" which prompts the good behavior of Savannah citizens: An officer of General Sherman's army who has had ample opportunity of observation, and knows full well whereof he asserts, told me yesterday, that ninety-nine per cent. of what is said about the loyalty of the people of Savannah is nonsense. He took particular pains to investigate the mat-ter, and after a residence of many weeks in the captured city, came to the conclusion that there were just two loyal men there— one of these is the individual recently made Postmaster of Savannah, and the other is

Mr. Wiley Woodbridge, who is to be made Collector of the Port.

My informant says the most that can be said in favor of the people of Savannah is, that they are civil, that they are a great improvement on the people of New Orleans, Nashville and Memphis in this respect. But how much of this is due to respect and how much to fear and the force of example may be open to discussion. Half starved as thep were when Sherman entered the city, they were still devoted to the source of all their were still devoted to the source of at their woes, and a literal translation of this feigned "love for the old flag," (though I don't believe they even pretended as much love for it as has been represented was a love for the corn meal and flour and pork the rebel army; that in fact she would willingly give it all to them if she could, and if she thought they needed it. People have taken the oath to save their cotton, but their best wishes are still with the rebel cause. The Washington Chronicle states that a very cunning case of smuggling on the Ca-nadian border has recently been detected, for which the law provides no remedy. It seems that the smuggler built his house immediately on the boundary line, with an entrance from the north and another from the south. He can thus bring British or American south. He can thus bring British or American goods into his house without paying duties to either government; and can, without detection, easily pass them over to the other side. It is said the fellow has, by this illicit trade, grown rich, and scarcely feels under the necessity of concealing the secret of his ill-gotten gains.

A Prejudice Conquered. patches of Major Generals, and learn that our brave patriots breast the storm of rebel bullets, or charge on their defenses as fiercely and fearlessly as they ever did before black men were suffered to wear the army blue, we are led to wonder if any of the veterans of the old Army of the Potomac are still there. But there is no room for doubt. They are still there. Freed from the baneful influence of the old commander and his satellites, they have come to their senses. They are willing to fight side by side with those who will fight the enemies of their country, whether they be black or white, and they are doing it gloriously. Under McClellan the whoie army was embittered against the administration by the mad-dog cry, "Abolitionist." The mere mention of the negro called forth from the soldier a torthe negro called forth from the soldier a tor-rent of invectives. "Lincoln wants to de-grade the white man for the sake of the nigger." "P'de see the country sunk before I would fight alongside of a nigger." They took their cue from their leader, and the satanic literature which was so freely circu-lated by his connivance.

As foolish and wicked were the lying influences which were brought to bear on the army of the Potomac, and as completely and strangely were men's minds perverted. The insane hatred of the African which led the Irish in New York to the fiendish outbreak, which their friend Seymour so gent-ly deprecated, was a crop from the same planting. The wonder now is why we did not at the very outset call upon the black men to arm for their liberty. Gen. Jack-son's force at the battle of New Orleans was made up of a mixture of nationalities, among which the blacks of New Orleans, and "people of color from St. Domingo" numbered a full proportion. One seventh of the British attacking force consisted of black soldiers from the West Indies. A description of the British attacking force consisted of black soldiers from the West Indies. tachment of Colonial (black) marines formed a part of the force which vanquished the chivalry of Virginia and Maryland in the attack on Washington in 1814. So shame-ful was their discomfiture that the affair has ever since been known as "the Bla-densburg races." When Admiral Cock-burn's fleet lay in the Chesapeake, hun-dreds of slaves escaped to the vessels and to Antangier island, who were immediately to Antangier island, who were immediately incorporated into the army, and subsequently rewarded by grants of land in Canada. Many of them and their descendants are good citizens there now. In more modern times the British have repeatedly had Colonial regiments stationed in Canada. Now, sir, twenty-five or fifty years hence, from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be a continuous tier of States, members of the Union, and over those States will run the ron horse of the Pacific railroad. Members who reside upon the far western coast have also an interest, then, in this highway. The products of Asia wafted over the Pacific ocean, and then by rail, can be shipped upon the waters of Lake Michigan and pass to the Atlantic by this great improvement, and the merchandise of Philadelphia, of Baltimore, of New York, of delphia, or Baltimore, of New York, of Beston; and of Portland, will be sent westdiately began to dance a hornpipe, performing the most remarkable gymnastics. The Wind a Musician.

The wind is a musican by birth. We extend a silken thread in the crevices of a window, and the wind finds it and sings window, and the wind finds it and sings over it, and goes up and down the scale upon it, and poor Paginini must go somewhere else for honor; for lo! the wind is performing upon a single string. It tries almost anything on earth to see if there is music in it; it persuades a tone out of the great bell in the tower, when the sexton is at home and asleep; it makes a mournful harp of the giant pines, and it does not disdain to try what sort of a whistle can be made out of the humblest chimney in the world. What a melody it sings when it gives a concer, with the full choir of the waves of the sea, and performs an anthem between the two worlds. Then, how fondly it haunts old houses; mourning under ly it haunts old houses; mourning under eaves, singing in the halls, chaunting a measure of some sad old song around the fireless and deserted hearths.

Military Summary.

For the first time in the history of this rebellion, we are approaching, with a scarcely perceptible acceleration of the national pulse, a crisis of such momentous interest that the whole world might stand still to look. It will thus be seen that it takes over a week for the mails to travel from Richmond to Charleston; two weeks to travel from Richmond to Montgomery, and fifteen days from Richmond to Mobile. In other words, it takes longer to travel from Richmond to Mobile or Montgomery than from New York to London or Paris.

This, too, was before Gen. Sherman had captured Branchville. We venture to say that the next mails to Richmond from any point beyond the Savannah river, will be over a month old, and that it will soon take Jeff. Davis about longer to get news from the deneral minisen.

It is no secret that the despairing copperheadism of Kentucky has made exceeding and diligent efforts to construe the change of command into a partisan triumph. It is no secret that Union men have been a little prone to concede it as such.

It is plain to everybody that legal acumen and experience are not unless the money is paid in advance. All less demanded in the new position he has assumed, than military attainments.

Gen. Palmer has these two-fold acquirements in an eminent degree. He has been in his day somewhat of a politician, but a thoroughly straight-forward and self-consistent one. He was, we believe, a "Democrat," but one who believed in democracy, and not in the Calhoun substitute for it, not in the conspiracies of oligarchic despotism against human liberty and selfgovernment.

He has the excellent distinction, which has characterized, for a whole generation, the true friends of freedom in this country, of having served for years on the side of the minority.

A minority is the best of schools to graduate in, politically. The great leaders of and yet it is certainly criminal to entertain a confidence which allows no possibility of school. Its members have both the provodefeat. The rebels are compelled to mass for one last, desperate effort. "It is not safe," says Hugo, "to sleep in the shade of a upas tree or in the shadow of a great to follow up principles to their last and logical results. The study and development of principles therefore becomes a necessity with them. Whatever wisdom majorities have is commonly the derivative and diluted wisdom of some thoughtful and sturdy minority. But the tempests of revolution may carry a whole people over to the side of such a minority, and then the slowly tempered, long drilled leaders of the latter. the men who have already thought out from surface to center and top to bottom all the questions involved in the contest, and whose practical and speedy solution has then become vitally important, such men become the natural leaders of the majority. We digress into this slight generalization because we deem it specially pertinent to the subject in hand.

General Palmer has been for years a steadfast opponent of the aggressive measures of the slave power. His readiness to lay down his life in the General's support. This and various other items connected with the ovation at Frankfort very naturally inade Union men a little distrustful. But their apprehensions, we believe, are entirely groundless. Gen. Palmer is with ns. And he is, moreover, a man of suffius. THE DRAFT.-As the draft did not commence here on the 15th inst., the limit of time granted for filling quotas by volunteering, in the President's Proclamation of December 19, calling for "three hundred thousand more," many are under the impression that it has been postponed. This is a mistake. The Provost Marshal of this District has received instructions from the Provost Marshal General to prepare at once to proceed with the draft, and report to the War Department when everything was in readiness. At the same time he was instructed to report to the Provost Marshal General what counties or sub-districts had or were rapidly filling their quotas, clearly implying, we think, a purpose not to order the draft in such places as were rapidly filling their quotas.

No order has yet been received by Provost Marshal Womack to proceed with the draft in this District, and we believe he will not receive any such order, so far as Jeffer- this day, February 22, Mr. Lawrence Young son county is concerned, if the efforts now being made to fill its quota continue to give secretary. promise of success. The Mayor has assured us that the men can be easily enough obtained if a sufficient sum of money can be raised for bounties. Let all men, therefore, liable to draft come forward and subscribe to the general draft fund at the Mayor's office. It is the cheapest, and now a pretty sure way of avoiding the draft,

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SECOND ILLI-Nois .- The 152d Illinois, a new regiment, arrived here yesterday, and left for Nashville. It numbers 950 men, nearly all veterans. This is the third new regiment that has passed through our city within a week for the front, (if the "front" may now be located anywhere southwardly from this.) These new regiments are the first that have been raised under the late call for three hundred thousand men, and will be followed by a number of others. The north west has an abundance of the best material for armies, which will be freely furnished the Government so long as rebellion exists in the South.

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW .-- We have to acknowledge the receipt from the Amer ican publishers of this venerable quarterly, Messrs. L. Scott & Co., New York, of the last number of the new volume No. 163. The improvement in paper and typography of these "reprints" is noticeable. The subjects for the eight leading articles in the January number are: Taine's History of English Literature. The Science of Lan guage. Hamlet. The Intellectual Development of Europe, Peace in Poland. Circumstantial Evidence. Whatever is, is Right. Railway Reform, besides the comprehensive Chapter on Contemporary Lite-

The laughable farce of "Dunducketty's Picnic" will also be played, in which Mr. Warren and Miss Orton will appear.

We learn that orders have been received from Washington that have put a stop to the forcible enlistment of colored men in this city. We are glad to hear this. There is no state of facts or circumstances that would justify a measure that forces any particular class of men into the army. Colored men stand their chances of being drafted with other men, and that is enough, Besides there are enough of them who are willing to go into the army.

of $300 to each volunteer who may hereaf ter be enlisted in the United States military service when the certificate is presented showing that a credit has been given to the city of Louisville for the person enlisted or ored in as above.

WM. KAYE, Mayor.

The Bonds of the city of Louisville, to the mount of $200,000, authorized to be issued to raise a Bounty Fund, will be ready for sale as soon as they can be printed and filled up, which will be in a few days.

The Bonds are for $1,000 each, with coupons attached for semi-annual payment of interest; one hundred of the bonds being nearable too wears after date and the other payable ten years after date, and the other hundred payable twenty years after date. That the citizens of Kentucky, especially of Louisville, may have an opportunity of making an investment in the purchase of the bonds to such amount as they may wish, those who desire to purchase will please, at once, address the Mayor of the city, giving their name and residence, the number and character of the bonds pro-posed to be bought and the highest price they are willing to pay therefor. This invi-tation for proposals is not, however, limit-ed to citizens of Kentucky.

At the same time I attacked the works by At the same time I attacked the works by placing the Monitor Montauk close to the works, with the Pautucket, Seneca, Unadilla, and Pequot. The tide and wind not allowing more vessels to get under fire. The fort answered pretty briskly, but quieted down by sunset. On the 18th at 8 o'clock I moved up closer, the Montauk leading, followed by the Aurora, Sassacus, Pequot, Marengo, Madilla, Pautucket, Osceola, Shawmut, Seneca, Chippewa, and Little Marengo, Madilla, Pautucket, Oscoola, Shawmut, Seneca, Chippewa, and Little Ada, and kept up a heavy fire through the day till late in the afternoon. The enemy's batteries were silenced by 3 o'clock, though we kept up the fire till dark. We also fired we kept up the first till dark. We also fired through the night. In the meantime Gen. Schofield was working in the rear of the rebels to cut them off. The latter did not wait for the army to surround them, but left in the night, taking 56 pieces of light artillery with them, and everything else of value. At daylight this morning some of our troops that were near by went in and hoisted the flag upon the ramparts, when the firing ceased from the Monitors. There were ten heavy guns in Fort Anderson and a quantity of ammunition.

We lost but three killed and thirty wounded

evacuation of Columbia, Sentinel, of the 20th, says: It is said that some of our engraved treas ury note paper fell into the hands of the Yankees, and also a considerable quantity of medical stores. We have no particulars of these losses, as the official dispatch of the fall of Columbia was communicated to President Davis, and we doubt whether it President Davis, and we doubt whether it was even sent to the War Department, which appears to be in complete ignorance of what has happened in South Carolina, except from what bits of information as have been picked up on the street.

We understand that Grant shows no disposition to assume offensive operations and has withdrawn from his works on this side of Hatcher's run. Great Union Speech of Mr. Haines. Newbern, N. C., Feb. 19.—The great speech of Mr. Haines, delived on the 20th alt., is attracting much attention. His argument favoring a restoration of the Union is as fearless as it is able. The irresponsi-ble Representatives in the rebel Congress from Missouri and other States, who have no constituents, are assisting to bind the fetters, on North Carolina. The North, being in the best spirits over their presen brilliant prospects, will speedily furnish the 300,000 men called for by Mr. Lincoln, who will go to the field with greater alacrity and soon become excellent soldiers, in-spired, as they are, with the hope of speedy success over their enemies. Can we recover the majesty of the Confederate States, which has been taken from us by the armies of the United States? Can we hold our remaining territory? Can we even prevent the fall of Richmond and the capture or destruction of Richmond and the capture or destruction of our only remaining army, recruited to the full extent of our white population.

Regarding reconciliation he said: There are those who think, after as much strife and bloodshed, that reconciliation is impossible. This is a mistake. In the case of England and Scotland, which was in Some respects similar to course device the manufacture of the English journals to excite sentiments of hostility in North England and Scotland, which was in Some respects similar to course device the manufacture of the Reviews. Such will prove to be our case. The only hope I have ever seen of success in this struggle will prove to be our case. The only hope I have ever seen of success in this struggle was that the Northwestern States might be induced to join our Confidence in the confiden induced to join our Confederacy. The manner in which these States voted in the late Presidential election has dispelled that hope forever, and in my judgment has sealed the fate of the Confederacy.

The Rebel Situation is Hopeless.

Gen. Sherman Pushing Forward.

Cheering Indications from N. C.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.-The Times' Washington special says, The fears of some tim-orous persons, that Lee will be able to pre-cipitate himself on Sherman, and, united with Beauregard, be able to check the ad-vance of that General, are not shared in by either the Government or sensible men here. These persons forget that Grant and his army will have something to say in that issue,

Lee is closely observed by Grant on every point, and the first intimation he gives of any intention to withdraw from Richmond will be the signal for the tiger spring by Grant. Gen. Grant is perfectly cognizant of every move on the part of his adversary. versary.

Deserters from Lee's army arrive at the rate of 100 per day.

A distinguished military man to-day pointed out that the present situation of Lee is precisely analagous to that of Napoleon in 1814, when France was invaded by the allies. Notwithstanding he lavished all the resources of his incomparable genius to resist the advance, he was pushed and pressed upon by converging forces of his opponents, and was finally compelled to capitulate in his capital. The indications are that Sherman is pushing his triumphant columns straight on Raleigh, which point he will reach early next week. He writes privately that the people of the old North State are prepared to hail the advance of his army, and promptly wheel the State into the Union. Since the fall of Charleston, Wilmington and Mobile are the only ports remaining of the numerous important seaport cities for-merly under rebel rule. Both are doomed to fall, if not already, in our possession. A powerful expedition is directed against both.

The World's Washington special savs: Gov. Morgan, in reply to solicitations from influential friends to accept the position of Secretary of the Treasury, vesterday pre-emtorily declined it, finally settling all doubts in the matter, so far as he is con-cerned. New England is still opposing the pressure from the West in favor of Mr. Mc-

The Tribune's Washington special says there have been rumors all day of the evacuation of Wilmington, but nothing positive. It is, however, known that, immediately after the fall of Ft. Fisher, the city was partially evacuated, and it is believed the entire force in that vicinity will join Beaure gard and endeavor to check Sherman. If it was not evacuated on Sunday it will be invested before the week is out.

A high official to-day expressed the opinion that Lee can't remain thirty days more at Richmond. He must attack Grant and raise the seige, or fall back to Lynchburg, the only line of ratreat new left over
